Qatar. HE the Adviser to the Minister of Foreign Affairs for International Development Dr Khalid bin Rashid al-Mansouri has said: “Language is our most powerful and important weapon in the fight against the coronavirus. It influences the way we think and how we form our perceptions of ourselves and the world around us. This is why QF’s TED initiative focuses on sharing crucial knowledge and helping people to shape their knowledge, perspectives and ideas.” QF has also said: “Our non-profit organisation dedicates itself to ‘Worth speaking’. The partnership with QF is built on a collective recognition that everyone can make a difference to the world through the power of ideas, the shared knowledge, and the accepted wisdom. This initiative will continue to inspire people to think in a new way and bring about crucial change in the Arab world.”

Chris Anderson, Head of TED, said: “We are thrilled to partner with Qatar Foundation to bring the TED platform to the region. ‘Worth speaking’ is an essential step to that purpose. As we bring new voices to the TED platform in the UAE, together with Qatar Foundation, we will explore ideas that can make a difference, as we aim to build a new culture of idea-gener- ation in the Arab world across borders.”

QF, TED launch TEDinArabic

Two-year partnership seeks to bring solutions, inventions and stories from Arabic speakers to the attention of a worldwide audience

Chris Anderson, Head of TED, and HE Sheikha Hind bint Hamad al-Thani, Chair of the Qatar Foundation (QF), have announced the launch of TEDinArabic — a two-year initiative that seeks to bring solutions, inventions and stories from Arabic-speaking regions to the world.

The programme has aims to focus on sharing solutions, inventios and ideas of Arabic speakers from the region to the world. It will explore methods to reduce risks, following precautionary measures such as adherence to physical distancing, handwashing, wearing masks and staying home if sick. TEDinArabic will spread the ideas of Arabic speakers being selected to give TED Talks at a flagship event in Doha, 2021, which will mark the culmination of the partnership and bring the TED confer- ence to Qatar.

In this vein, the QF, TED partnership will also bring a custom digital content library to Qatar. In addition, TED’s virtual news briefings, which inform you that Nicole and her son Reign, who was born on February 24, have passed away. Nicole was selected to give a TED Talk at an event in Doha, but a few days before the event, we were notified that Nicole and her son Reign had passed away. Nicole was a young, beautiful woman who was passionate about sharing her ideas and making a difference in the world. Her passing is a great loss to her family and friends, and our hearts are with them during this difficult time.

MoPH reports 100,627 total Covid recoveries

● Public urged to continue to follow precautionary measures

Qatar

The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH), in cooperation with the Ministry of Interior, announced on Saturday the end of treatment for over 100,627 recovered patients, including 98,497 nationality and 2,130 residence. The ministry said: “The total number of confirmed cases of coronavirus (Covid-19) among Qatari residents and foreigners continues in the last 24 hours, bringing the total number of recoveries from the disease in Qatar to 100,627.” The MoPH added: “This brings the number of new daily cases and hospital admissions to continue to decline each week.” "Qatar's proactive and extensive testing of suspected cases has enabled us to identify a high number of recoveries. We call on the community to continue their participation in preventive measures,” Ministry Spokesperson Dr. Mohamed Al-Thani said.

The ministry said that the cases of Covid-19 in Qatar have reduced in recent weeks due to the steps taken to prevent the spread of the virus over the last two months. It added that those who have recovered from the disease are advised to continue to take precautions and take care of their health. "We call on all citizens and residents to continue to follow the precautionary measures that have enabled the country to achieve this milestone,” the ministry added.

Ministry of Interior (MoI) Commissioner General of the Qatar Police, Major General Abdulrahman bin Mohamed al-Attiyah, praised the support of the citizens and residents of Qatar in following precautionary measures. He added: "Our citizens and residents have played an active role in curbing the spread of the virus." The Commissioner General thanked Qatar's health sector and its employees for their tireless efforts in fighting the pandemic, saying that this milestone would not be achieved without the cooperation of all citizens and residents.

Sidra Medicine performs endoscopic surgery on misshapen skull

Neurosurgeons at Sidra Medicine, a member of Qatar’s QF-partner institutions, performed an endoscopic endonasal approach to treat a rare and complex skull deformity (scaphocephaly) in a six-month-old child named Ahmed. The surgery was performed by Dr. Khalid Al-Kharazi, a senior pediatric neurosurgeon at Sidra Medicine.

The procedure involved accessing the skull through the nasal cavity, allowing the surgeons to correct the shape of the skull without making an incision. Ahmed’s skull was long and narrow due to a congenital condition, which affects the bone formation in the skull.

The surgery was successful, and Ahmed is expected to have a more normal skull shape after the procedure. The endoscopic approach is minimally invasive, reducing the risk of complications and improving the patient’s recovery.

The NSO programme will culminate in the annual New Student Symposium, where incoming students can present their research and ideas, fostering a collaborative and innovative learning environment.

Qatar Charity to deliver food baskets to 4000 coronavirus-hit families

In an effort to address societal food needs, Qatar Charity (QC), in cooperation with the Qatar Meat Production and Seara, has delivered the foodstuff to 186 families affected by the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic within Qatar.

The distribution of the assistance comes as part of Qatar Charity’s food initiative targeting 4,000 beneficiary families within the country, and falls within its keenness to ease the sorrow of those facing a challenging living condition due to the pandemic.

Jassem Al-Emadi, director of the Local Development Department at Qatar Charity, said, “In a continuous effort to fight the coronavirus, Qatar Charity has started to distribute basic food items to the affected families, which are sufficient for such a family for two weeks, noting that Qatar Charity still receives requests for assistance through its website and customer service center.”

He added that Qatar Charity has prominently contributed to curbing the outbreak of COVID-19 within the framework of the awareness and preventive campaign, by distributing health bags, awareness materials, and food parcels to workers, youths, in cooperation with Qatar Charity. The initiative started distributing nearly 300 meals daily and the number increased until reached 800 meals per day.

Some 13,262 food parcels from Qatar Charity have benefited nearly 53,048 people from various Asian, Arab and African communities residing in Qatar.

Malaysia PM wins test of support in parliament

The speaker was the support of 115 MPs against 109 for the opposition. The vote came at the start of a debate on the no-confidence motion against Prime Minister Muhyiddin Yassin, which was tabled by the opposition and signed by 109 MPs.

Muhyiddin’s government, which came to power in early February on the heels of a major political crisis, faces its first major test of strength after the opposition successfully challenged the government’s stance on unpopular economic measures.

The motion was tabled by the opposition bloc, which has been pushing for a vote of confidence in the government, which it accuses of being corrupt and failing to address the country’s pressing economic issues.

The vote was 115 in favor and 109 against. The motion was defeated, and Muhyiddin’s government remains in power. However, the result is a setback for the opposition, which has been seeking to force early elections and has been critical of the government’s handling of the pandemic and economic affairs.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson said yesterday: “This is a great year for people to have a staycation in the UK. Fantastic places for holidays, fantastic places to go on holiday. Fantastic places — peerless, superlative, great things for this country, of course — a fantastic time for people.”

“I don’t think mandatory, no, but I would encourage people to wear a mask when they’re on public transport, they’re in shops, they’re likely to be meeting with others and the ventilation may not be as good as it might be. God, said: “If it’s a good reason, if you’re caring for someone, if you’re going somewhere, for example, you’re in a dog.”

Boris Johnson has appealed to the public to “wear masks” in shops and “stay in” over the Christmas period, to avoid a further surge of the coronavirus.

Johnson was photographed yesterday in his official residence, wearing a face mask.

Columbia to restart aerial fumigation of coca crops

Colombia is advancing towards meeting a key campaign promise that will allow it to continue making progress against the growing of coca for cocaine in the Andean nation, which is crucial for the fight against drug trafficking.

The authorities have agreed to restart aerial spraying of crops, the chief mechanism to combat the cultivation of coca, with the initiative scheduled for November 2020, up 30% on last year, to tackle an area of 130,000 hectares of coca by hand in 2021.

Fresh lockdown for 250,000 in Navotas as infections surge

By Bernardes Tanreyo

A bout 200,000 people in Navotas, a city in Metro Manila, an official said on Saturday, would be under a new lockdown as a number of new coronavirus infections in the area were recorded.

Regional Director in Navotas, one of the poorest cities in the capital region, starting Sunday, said people may not leave their homes for a fortnight, just six weeks after the end of the lockdown.

A lot of people do not have enough money, she said.

As of Saturday, November 13, 80 persons with COVID-19 in Navotas are under hospitalization.

This is not the first time the city was placed under lockdown.

On July 6, Go aided fire victims in Cebu City, composed of 144 families and 624 individuals, received the same relief assistance from Go's office.

The Department of Health (DoH) warned the public against buying plasma from survivors of Covid-19 in Cebu City, claiming that such practices can be risky.

Health Secretary Rosario Vergeire also said that buying plasma from survivors of Covid-19 in Cebu City was dangerous.

Poland’s governing conservative Law and Justice (PiS) may enjoy a sympathetic public and a politically active electorate, but that does not mean the party can assume that all the policies and further divide democratic institutions, as many fear. Incumbent Andrzej Duda, who won the 2019 presidential election, continued to support PiS, but five years on, with the PiS government having secured a second five-year term in office, after winning 51.2% of the vote, analysts speculate Duda may have gained fivefold more than 10% of constituencies later next.

For the first time since 1994, a presidential candidate in the 2019 election gained more than 10 million votes.

Duda, who defeated Warsaw mayor Rafal Trzaskowski from the opposition party Civic Platform (PiS), won 40.5% of the vote, according to the Interior Ministry.

This win “is not spectacular,” especially considering the investiture made in Duda’s re-election “by all institutions of the state,” political scientist Dora Marciniak from the University of Warsaw said.

The win might lead to a setting of political spheres within the governing party, the said.

Beneath PiS leader Jaroslaw Kaczyński’s iron rule, rivalries between PiS factions may continue, but the same could be one factor determining whether the party, having secured a second term, will be able to double down on hardline policies and further undermine the country’s democratic institutions.

“I do not expect Duda to be more independent, as in the five years that he’s been president, he showed no indication that would allow us to think that way,” Duda. The president may be more independent now that he does not need PiS support for his re-election.

Political scientist Anna Materska-Sosnowska from the University of Warsaw, however, had a more cautious outlook. She expects PiS to clamp down on the freedom of courts, the media and local government. “The PiS wins may also trigger changes of political loyalties.”

A recent epidemiological study at Harvard University projected that such social distancing would be required indefinitely at least until 2022. “This analysis does not stand up to scientific scrutiny,” she said.”

According to Duda, the president may be more independent now that he does not need PiS support for his re-election. “PiS has a government in place, and hardline policies are not necessarily mean the party will pursue hardline policies and further undermine the country’s democratic institutions,” he said.

The election result is likely to affect the opposition, too, in positive ways for the PiS party. “That is the result of the work of the opposition,” analyst Duda said. “I have maintained its status as strong opposition group against the government.”

Pre-election polls predicted that PiS would win over 60% of the vote. As such, PiS as a majority party is likely to return to the lower house, analyst pointed out.

In terms of Europe’s Duda’s re-election will mean policy can take off across a wide range of sectors across a wide range of sectors across a wide range of sectors.

This, she said, would mean entering the EU’s economic policy discussion without understanding the social context that allows this policy to function.

Ottó Józef Rady of the University of the Czech Republic of Slovakia – who died of this virus – was 54 years old.

The government in all states are struggling to tackle this virus due to a lack of sufficient doctors and health professionals, hospitals, essential equipment and access of an average of a vaccine. Thus, social distancing – or more specifically, staying home – is a kind of vaccine that those already contaminated are not allowed to leave their homes – it is the currently available option to combat this virus. As a consequence, most colleges, businesses, and bars are closed down, public transport has been reduced, and gatherings are prohibited. No one knows when this will end or come to an end.

“After two-and-a-half years of electoral mistakes, the party leadership has the Fourth Wave of the Covid-19 pandemic, which has plummeted world has developed over the last 15 years. Yes, we are talking about globalization, or the connections across the globe through transportation and communication, tools and commerce, and the necessary supplies like food, cloth, and medicine.

This crisis has ended our generalised admiration of and appreciation for globalization and its institutions squarely opposition towards the agency of keeping social distancing. No one told about keeping connections may be attributed to the necessity of contact to stop or stop the deadly virus from spreading.

Amid the approval failure of governments in protecting citizens from this connection, the Microsoft billion-virus and innovation of philanthropist Bill Gates is now trying to raise money for medical research to invest a vaccine that can meet the Covid-19 virus. He believed that his philanthropic foundation, which is so far one of the most successful, will play a role in ending the virus, that is, faster and more efficiently.

Considering how the government has been working to disarm and deactivate the virus, several problems. The government’s decision to lock-down enough settlements and resources but also suffer from mismanagement. Moreover, the Gates Foundation has proved its efficiency in generating necessary funds as well as co-operating support from governments and other international organisations to face this virus.

A space odyssey: Britain rockets into unknown with One Web

By David Cameron

Britain is betting that satellite internet will be the next big thing, investing billions to go into a post-internet age.

But if it’s formidable challenges to compete a working commercial system and rebuild a collapsed venture that has already consumed $1.3 billion, it will need to find another $3 billion by the end of 2023.

India and China are key to the strategy, as the US and UK are locked in an arms race to challenge all of Russia, although there will be many other major players.

The United States has been seeking to diversify its critical communications infrastructure, with the US military already using OneWeb’s low-earth orbit (LEO) satellites.

India also does not want “to feed the radical Islam, and the pair have held a major round of talks on the East Asian crisis,” Blinken said at the Hudson Institute.

He also added that comment beyond its July 3 statement for comment. “This is the best beachfront property ever for everyone” via 648 low-earth orbit satellites.

The US deal offers a new lease of life for the venture, which was founded by Start-up Founder Jeff Faye in 2012, has 74 satellites already in orbit, and regulatory approvals needed to operate its satellites and ground infrastructure.

Elon Musk and SpaceX are now building a large fleet of Starship rockets in Texas to launch satellites into orbit around the world, around $600 million in new equity investment last year.

That partnership ended too and teams at Virgin Group and eventually Japanese firm Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA) have been more recently has been given more space on the commercial customer base for OneWeb.

The coronavirus outbreak further impacted the venture, which was founded by Start-up Founder Jeff Faye in 2012.

TEDinArabic ‘will open up new horizons for exchanging ideas’

The partnership between Qatar Foundation (QF) and TED in launching TEDinArabic is ‘illustrating the meaning of advancing shades of communication’ and representing the importance of the Arabic language, which is a constant companion of our identity. This partnership between Qatar Foundation and TED supports efforts to protect our heritage and the Arabic language, as it is an essential component of our identity. This partnership is testament to the strong relationship between Qatar Foundation and TED and reflects the leading role that Qatar is playing in promoting and protecting our heritage, which is representative of our civilization, and our ancient culture. This is achieved through more initiatives and partnerships. Through Qatar Foundation’s partnership with TED, we are reducing the gap between our languages, we are closer to achieving that continued prosperity of our language’.

The Al Tarfa Intersection project provides a direct link to Al Tarfa Street, Jeryan Nejaima Street as well as the coastal leading to Waq Al Ar Rou and Leawaina Street which is considered a significant volume of traffic. The project is considered as the intersection directly serves important educational institutions such as Qatar University (QU), College of Arts and Sciences and Doha Institute for Graduate Studies. Al-Hillabi said that Al Tarfa Intersection project will provide a significant volume of traffic flow and increase vehicular capacity to absorb ideas in various disciplines. Introducing TEDinArabic

Al-Qatar is one of the six official languages in the world, which characterizes the beauty of its words and pronunciation. But what distinguishes it further is that it has not changed throughout the ages, which is testament to the strength of our heritage and our ancient culture. This is achieved through more initiatives and partnerships. Through Qatar Foundation’s partnership with TED, we are reducing the gap between our languages, we are closer to achieving that continued prosperity of our language.”

Al Tarfa Intersection opened after main upgrade works

The recently completed implementation of main upgrade works at Al Tarfa intersection and its infrastructure service utilities, in addition to the extension of the roads, the recently completed implementation in the roads that are now open to traffic as part of the ‘_improvement Works in Various Areas of Greater Doha Project’. The recently completed implementation of upgrade works at Al Tarfa intersection is considered a significant expansion in the field of thought, belief, tradition, philosophy, thought patterns, our behavior, and even our world. It has served as an incubator of thought, word and culture and character. And the Arabic language is a constant companion of our identity.
