Qatar

The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH) reported 276 new recoveries and 36 new Covid-19 cases on Wednesday, bringing the total number of people who have recovered so far to 111,055 cases. It also announced the death of one more Covid-19 patient, who was receiving the necessary medical care.

The health ministry said measures to tackle Covid-19 in Qatar continued to be effective in reducing the curve and limiting the spread of the virus and the number of new daily cases and new recoveries is continuing to decline each week.

Qatar's successive and sustained testing of suspected cases has enabled the MoPH to identify a high number of positive cases in the community. Qatar has one of the lowest Covid-19 death rates in the world.

As we approach the US presidential election in November, some 15% of the world's population has had Covid-19, with close to 40 million deaths worldwide. The US has already registered more than 86,000 daily infections and the United States, and 15% of its nations begin to report more than 1,000,000 confirmed cases by July evening and 250,000 deaths. That account is just one-third of the world's total. The US is the most affected country, followed by India, Brazil and Russia. John Mendicino said on Friday. The number of infections continues to grow and the number of deaths in the world per 100,000 inhabitants, of consu- merism with more than 10,000,000 cases.

The region's shift from leaned towards voting for the first time in 14 years, on the basis that it “is not the time to focus on the previous generation. We are living in an age of urgency, a time when we need leaders who are willing to take bold actions to address the challenges facing our country. As a result, I am calling on all of you to vote for a new generation that will lead us forward. I believe we can make this happen, and I ask you to join me in this effort.”

As the virus continues to spread, public health officials are calling for continued efforts to control the spread of the disease. The US is one of the countries with the highest number of cases, with over 4 million infections and 151,000 deaths. The disease has affected people of all ages, including children, and has caused significant economic and social disruption. The US government has imposed lockdown measures and social distancing guidelines to slow the spread of the virus. Despite these efforts, the virus continues to spread, and a vaccine is still not available.

As we prepare for the election, it is important to remember the importance of voting. The election is not just about selecting a president, but about selecting a future for our country. The choices we make in this election will shape the future of our society, and we must take this responsibility seriously. The US election is one of the most important in the world, and it has the potential to bring about significant change.

In conclusion, the US election is a critical moment in our history. It is a time to come together and make choices that will shape the future of our country. Let us vote and make our voices heard. Let us make a difference. Let us change the course of history. Let us vote for a new generation of leaders who will lead us forward.
Philippine security forces ‘alert’ for protests after mishap for held amidst

A Philippine police station near the presidential palace was on alert yesterday afternoon for possible protest attacks by supporters of an Islamic State-linked militant group who killed dozens of a seminar for previous President Rodrigo Duterte.

The group, on the other hand, said it was a key leader of the militant group who raised the alarm among the authorities.

The police said they had received reports that hundreds of protesters were planning to converge on the main police headquarters in downtown Manila.

The protest is expected to begin at 3 p.m. and last until 5 p.m., according to the police.

The police said they had received similar reports earlier this week, but they were not able to confirm if the protesters were members of the militant group.

The group has been active in the region and has been involved in previous attacks.

Protesters have used the group’s members in previous attacks, including the killing of a Philippine government official in 2013.

The group has also been linked to the killing of a number of local government officials in the southern Philippines.

The police said they were monitoring the situation and would take appropriate action if necessary.

B Britons travelling from France face a new quarantine requirement after the French government announced an extension of its list of restricted countries, including Romania, Bulgaria and the Netherlands, to include England. The decision, which has come into force at 4am, follows a week after the French government announced that it would take legal action against Britain if it threatened to impose quarantine measures on its citizens. A statement from the French government said that the UK had not provided sufficient evidence of its readiness to implement effective quarantine measures. It also said that the UK had not committed to lifting the ban on travel from France, which has been in place since March. The new restrictions will apply to all Britons and will come into force on Friday at midnight. It comes after a series of backlash from British citizens, who have accused the French government of being too strict and of not taking into account the situation in the UK. Britons have also accused the French government of being too slow in implementing the necessary measures to stop the spread of the virus. However, the French government has said that it is determined to protect its citizens and that it will continue to take all necessary measures to stop the spread of the virus.

The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH) says “through various measures, including testing and isolation, we are continuing to witness a decrease in the number of daily cases in the last few weeks.”

A person infected with the virus can be contagious as early as three days before showing symptoms, and up to 3 days after. It is never too late to turn the outbreak around!

Despite the total number of new cases declining considerably in recent weeks and months, there has been a worrying trend of increasing cases within the Qatari community and expatriate personal groups, Dr al-Khal observed.

“This is due to a minority of people within those population groups who continue to ignore preventive advice – purchase large quantities of meats and fish, or travel and throw themselves into the mirth of festivities,” he said.

The pandemic has presented a unique set of challenges for all of us. For all we are learning more and more about coronavirus every single day, but public health experts continue to warn that we don’t actually have to be exhibiting symptoms to spread the new coronavirus. A patient infected with the virus can be contagious as early as three days before showing symptoms, and up to 3 days after. It is never too late to turn the outbreak around!

The Covid-19 pandemic has placed a new level of personal accountability on each one of us.

Dr Abdullatif al-Khal, chair of the National Strategic Group on Covid-19, said during a press conference on Tuesday that the number has constantly remained under 500.

Covid-19 death rates in the world, besides registering a fall in the overall number of cases, have emerged to be 50 times lower compared to the first wave of the disease, even if they are still high.

Until Covid cases in the world have declined 90% and more, the first step for ensuring the success of the vaccine will be to end the global HIV epidemic. The vaccine will be useless if it is not coupled with the elimination of the main HIV transmission routes, which also means to end discrimination, poverty, and the racial and gender inequalities that amplify the spread of the virus.

New Indian envoy praises community’s efforts during Covid crisis

By Joseph Varghese

New Indian ambassador Dr Deepak Mittal has lauded the efforts of the community to support fellow Indians in distress during the Covid-19 pandemic.

The envoy who took charge a few days ago also highlighted the long-standing and cordial relations between Qatar and India. The new envoy is the 10th ambassador of India to Qatar.

Mittal was speaking to the Indian community in his maiden address in Qatar during the Indian Independence Day celebrations at the embassy yesterday.

“Qatar and India have a very good and cordial bilateral relationship. We have seen it grow from strength to strength over the past years. The Indian community has been the backbone of this great relationship and provided the strong foundation for such a relationship to grow and prosper,” the envoy said.

“His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad al-Thani had a lot of positive things to say about the Indian community and lauded the contributions of the community for the development of the country,” Mittal said.

The envoy said the Indian community has worked together as one body to face the challenges posed by Covid-19. “The community came together and worked selflessly to reach out to everyone who were in distress. We worked together and showed to the world that in Qatar we represent the cosmos of the Indian society as we come together, work together and help each and every one. We helped not only fellow Indians but also other people in Qatar, which is the uniqueness of Indian culture of ‘Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam’,” he said.

He also thanked the government of Qatar for facilitating the return of a large number of Indians stranded in Qatar during this pandemic and said that an agreement has been reached between the two countries to set up an air bubble travel arrangement for the return of Indians to Qatar.

“We have an understanding and agreement to setting up an air bubble travel arrangement between the two countries so that people from India and Qatar can travel and families can be reunited, students can join their educational institutions and people can return to their jobs, both the Qatar and Indian authorities have worked out this arrangement,” he added.

With this great support, we have been able to facilitate the return of a large number of Indians, who were stranded in Qatar, to their native places. It was not an easy task but a very difficult one, but was carried out successfully,” he highlighted.

The event ended with the presentation of patriotic songs and a cultural programme by the students of Indian schools.
