The three-day hybrid event under the theme ‘Young Global Citizens Co-Create Culture’, has brought together over 1,000 youth in Qatar and beyond to engage in cross-cultural exchange.

HE Sheikha Al Mayassa said: “Culture allows us to recognise our common humanity and has the power to shape our communities and forge a sense of identity and belonging. Here at Empower 2021, we recognise and celebrate the youth’s unique opportunity to promote, preserve, and co-create a global culture that will allow humanity to thrive.

Rota continues to support young people in this journey through equipping them with the knowledge, skills, and values they need to become agents of positive change.”

Youth participants between 15 and 24 will participate in workshops and learning opportunities, in line with Rota’s Global Citizenship Education mandate, to foster civic engagement and cultural preservation with the goal of bringing about sustainable development for future generations.

The speaker line-up brings together some of the finest arts and culture institutions in Qatar and beyond, including the Museums of Islamic Arts, the National Museum of Qatar, and the Qatar Children Museum.

Abdulla Faraj al-Abdulla, Rota technical director, commented: “Now in its 13th edition, Empower continues to mobilise the next generation as changemakers within their respective communities and foster a sense of belonging to a common humanity among young people everywhere.

“We are grateful to our partners Qatar Museum Authority, Unesco, Ban Ki-moon Centre for Global Citizenship, College of the North Atlantic – Qatar, Georgetown University in Qatar among other partners for lending their unparalleled insights into the power of cultural preservation in building sustainable creative economies, based on empathy, solidarity and respect for diversity.”

It is expected to get cooler in the country from tonight, the Qatar Met department has said. In a post on Twitter yesterday, the weather office said there will be a relative decrease in temperature because of northwesterly winds blowing from tonight and during the weekend. The maximum temperature during the day is expected to range from 26-31C and the lowest at night from 14-23C in different parts of Qatar. Doha and other parts of the country experienced dense fog early yesterday, leading to a drop in visibility in many places. Urging people to be careful, the Met department tweeted about ‘observing mist to fog’ in most places, which caused the horizontal visibility to drop to less than 2km and lacking at times. It also issued safety instructions to be followed in foggy conditions. Pictured are foggy conditions in Doha yesterday.

Air pollution costs Indian businesses ₹95bn, or roughly 7% of its gross domestic product every year, according to US-based nonprofit Clean Air Fund and the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII).

Officials said the visible haze from coal and diesel-powered станция, as air pollution continues to be a major concern for India.

The Lancet medical journal has estimated that almost 14% of India’s deaths in 2021 were caused by bad air. The direct threat to humans from PM 2.5, the fine, inhaled particles that lodge deep in the lungs where they can enter the bloodstream.

WHO guidelines allow a daily average exposure to PM 2.5 of up to 15 micrograms per cubic meter of air, whereas the Indian standards set the limit at 20.

The Fed must think creatively again

For its part, the Fed counsels patience. It is so focused on the recovery that could push already-low inflation nearer to the zero-bound.

In the meantime, policymakers and financial institutions have to attend to related issues that have been magnified during the pandemic, including the risk of asset bubbles and the possibility of a major financial crisis.

Inhalable particles can enter the bloodstream and contribute to cardiovascular disease and cancer. The Federal Reserve Board has estimated that the costs of reducing GHG emissions, and the well-being and ability to pay for such reductions, vary by country and by the specific circumstances of the economy.

A company emits 100 tons of CO2 and then removes the same amount, its net emissions will be zero. True, the recourse to forestry and other so-called offsets does not necessarily mean that the emissions are zero, but it’s a question of where and how.

In this case, offsets may be useful at least to moving the world closer to net-zero emissions. But to reach the finish line, they will have to be phased out at some point. There is ultimately no place for offsets in an economy that is carbon neutral.

In the meantime, inflation policymakers and financial institutions have to attend to related issues that have been magnified during the pandemic, including the risk of asset bubbles and the possibility of a major financial crisis.
