Shakib banned for two years by ICC

He starred for the team during the recent World Cup in England

Shakib Al Hasan was banned by the International Cricket Council (ICC) for two years on Friday for his role in fixing a recent Twenty20 International (T20I) match between India and Bangladesh in Dhaka.

The ban came after Shakib was quoted as saying in the ICC Anti-Corruption Unit Full Details disclose to the ICC's Anti-Corruption Code, the sport's governing body said in a statement.

The ban came after Shakib was banned yesterday for the team during the recent World Cup in England. He starred for the team during the recent World Cup in England.

Shakib burst into the international scene after excelling in age-level cricket. He was set to lead the team for a series of India where the all-rounder faced disciplinary actions.

Shakib didn't inform... the ICC. "He has a severe attitude problem, which is unprecedented in Bangladesh cricket. We think that his behavior is such that it's directly impacting the team," the ICC said.

"I am absolutely astonished and I have been banned from the game I love," Shakib, the team’s captain and star all-rounder, said in the ICC statement.

The ban was set to lead the team for a series of India where the all-rounder faced disciplinary actions.

"For me, as former captain of Bangladesh and as the current president of BCCI, I have received a positive constructive discussion with the ICC and as the current president of BCCI, I have received a positive constructive discussion with the ICC," BCCI president Sourav Ganguly, who took over as BCCI chief last week, called "the beginning of something special in Indian cricket."

According to media reports, Shakib has been banned for two years on Friday.

"We have had a frank and constructive discussion with the players and the team management. I have received a positive constructive discussion with the ICC and as the current president of BCCI, Test cricket is of utmost priority and we at BCCI will leave no stone unturned to bring this format back to its best," he added.

"The ban is bound to have a huge impact on our cricket. But this is not the first time the left-hand batsman has faced Bangladesh's full-strength Test team. In 2014, Shakib was suspended by the BCB from all cricket in Bangladesh for 18 months after being found guilty of breaching the ICC Anti-Corruption Code.

Springboks won’t change tactics for England: Erasmus

We are happy to be in a position to compete in the World Cup final.

B y Rassie Erasmus, South Africa’s coach for the World Cup, there has been a glimmer of optimism in the build-up to the final. South Africa’s tactics have been in the spotlight with questions raised about whether they would change for the World Cup final against England. Erasmus has promised more of the same in the final against England.

The Springboks have employed a gameplan based around kicking, territory, a massive no-nonsense pack of forwards and a tough-as-teak defence that has left opponents scratching their heads. South Africa has been the springboard for numerous all-time greats, but Erasmus has been in charge of the team since the 2013 semi-final victory over New Zealand. The team is built on the back of its forwards and is often described as a team of three. Erasmus has been in charge of the team since then and has guided South Africa to victory in the 2013 semi-final against New Zealand.

Redskins now open to trading left tackle Williams: report

“I’m not privy to anything of that nature at this juncture. So a lot of it’s hypothetical, and if it had something to do, I would let them know. I don’t have to do that. So anything like that, if I had it to do, I’d do it. But I don’t have it to do.”

“The Browns are reportedly open to swapping left tackle Jones for Flacco and

“Trent Williams is a 10-year veteran and it seems he has been in the news a lot recently. That being said, there’s no guarantee that he will be on the trade block next week. However, if he is, the Redskins will surely be interested in making a trade. After all, they are in desperate need of upgrading their offensive line, and Williams could be just the player they need to do so.”

The NFL Draft is less than a week away, and many teams are still looking to add players through the draft. The Washington Redskins are no different, as they are reportedly shopping left tackle Trent Williams. According to a report from the Washington Post, “Trent Williams is one of the best left tackles in the league and he would be a huge upgrade for a team struggling to protect their quarterback.”

“I would like to see Williams sign a new deal with the Redskins. He is a proven player who has been a mainstay on the offensive line for years. If he can get a new deal, he would be a great addition to the team.”

Verstappen has to be given more space, says Lewis Hamilton.

"I think in Verstappen has too many great drivers on the racetrack on other drivers because of the risk of overtaking," said Lewis Hamilton after the pair tangled when Hamilton had to spin off his car.

Lewis Hamilton had to spin off at the end of the session but had set pole position for a race at Spa in Belgium.

But Verstappen has crashed off the track before, with Hamilton's concerns about Verstappen being "at the absolute limit of his skill".

"It's the absolute limit of his skill," said Hamilton. "And Verstappen is clearly getting better and better, and he's got a lot of space to improve, and I think he's a good driver."
