Habit Abderhabean Ameen and 11-year race veteran Abdurahman Abdurahmaan could not be missed at the Qatar Flag thing high on the second floor of the Khalifa International Stadium. Ameen, who is the Fastest Athlete of all Time in the 400m, was running ahead to the next round of his respective discipline. Ameen was in the same heat as his American rival Kar Benjamins, and the two unsurprisingly led the top two spots in a thrilling race, with Ameen winning the 400m semi-final heat.

While US national champion Benjamin ran a 46.92 with the batons, Ameen, the delay eliminant, cruised the finish line in 46.72. The two have always been in contention as the 400m semi-final record stands at 46.48. However, the duo in the 2019 edition of the World Championships, Benjamin’s effort was good enough to be a second place in the finish.

In the last couple of years, Benjamin has been trying to keep his knee injury under control and to be able to compete at two big championships in a row, which is something... Not every athlete gets that opportunity. It has never been easy for me to have a smooth knee, but this year I am very happy that I have been able to do it. I have been trying to keep my mind positive and always focus on the next race. I have been working hard to be in the best shape and to be able to compete here at the World Championships. Ameen’s compatriot Ferguson has also scored an incredible talent and tonight I am feeling pretty good. I just wanted to come back and be able to compete here at the World Championships.

Talking about his experience out there, on the track at home, and even in the last Olympics, Ameen has the potential to be one of the best athletes in Qatar. He has a lot of potential and he has shown it in many ways this time in history. While Ameen’s time is pretty short, Ameen’s effort was good enough to be a second place in the finish.

For the first time, Benjamin felt confident about his preparations for his first World Championships. "I feel pretty good. I just wanted to get out there and manage the race and run smart so that I could set up a good day on Monday."

"All the Diamond Leagues have prepared me for this. I am used to running fast and I am actually feeling pretty excited. I was not too bad, I really wanted to race and run smart so that I could set up a good day on Monday."

For De Grasse, the bronze was a testament to his legacy. "I have been trying to keep my mind positive and always focus on the next race. I have been working hard to be in the best shape and to be able to compete here at the World Championships."

Price is right as American claims hammer hammer

DeAnna Price of the United States won the gold medal in the women's hammer throw event at the World Athletics Championships yesterday, completing a spectacular season after a career briefly marked by injury. The 30-year-old American took just 56 minutes to throw a world-leading distance of 76.35m to win ahead of silver medallist Christina Glaeser of Germany, who recorded a best throw of 74.76m.

Today is Mother's Day at the athletics worlds

The first Sunday at the Delta world championships could also be remembered as Mother's Day.

The women's hammer throw final was just one of the events celebrating mothers across the globe, with American hammer thrower DeAnna Price, who won the gold medal, paying tribute to her son.

"I have been a middle-distance runner my whole career including a dislocated shoulder, fractured clavicle, a broken rib and a catalogue of injuries over the past 18 months," Price said in an interview.

"It was okay at the beginning but then towards the end, I had to try hard to keep in touch.

"I thought I am more of a 1500 or 5000 runner so if I could get close I would have enough to win!"

The race was tough but I didn’t give up. I couldn’t let it out of my mind that I could be winner

The race was not very easy because it was held at night because it was Doha. I made sure I didn’t get dehydrated. I made sure I didn’t say I enjoyed it. I just tried my best till the end.

I only used water. I forced myself to drink it and also used my team mate’s but she easily won her heat was not nearly as impressive as her personal best for the second best time of 11.14.

I think it was a good run. I’m pretty sure that if I had relaxed I could have even run two seconds faster.

I felt very comfortable and I was not thinking about the heat.

The concerns of athletes about their performance and their physical health have kept the medical preparations and procedures in place. Every endurance event should go ahead as it relates to medical cover.

The controlled effort delivered a clear warning to other political leaders in the 12-year-old kids to lose the first man or woman to win the senior world titles. Jamaica’s women have taken on the mantle of global sprint supremacy from their men whose dominance has declined since the settlement of the 2019 world championships.

James bullish on new Lakers teammate Davis

"It's exciting to have such a beautiful young mind, a beautiful player but also a great leader as well," James said of the nine-time All-Star, who averaged more than 25 points per game in his nine seasons with New Orleans.

The Lakers made him the first overall pick in the 2012 NBA draft. Will's swiftness of new players, James predicted it would take time for the Lakers to develop chemistry and camaraderie. "It's going to be a process," he said. "It's going to take some time before our goal wants to become."

With his sights set on a deep playoff run for the Lakers, the 34-year-old James declined to discuss any plans to move on from the Lakers this upcoming season.

"We're not playing through Anthony Davis while he's on the floor, there's no sense in him spending the floor on the court because he there's no sense in that. That doesn't make any sense to me, to keep him there and throw it at him, but we have the ability to do it. It was really off his body, but it was possible to come in, to command double teams, and when you're able to attract two, you have the opportunity."

Davis joined the Lakers during the summer and has already spent considerable time working together.

Sabalenka beats Riske to defend Wuhan Open title

Wuhan, China

A ryana Sabalenka is in China to make history as she became the first player to win back-to-back titles in Wuhan thanks to a 6-3, 6-1 victory over American Alison Riske in the final yesterday.

Crucially, Sabalenka last year famously won her first WTA tournament on the main tour in Wuhan to break into the world's top 100, a feat which she will now outright. She celebrates her 21st birthday on October 18 and is looking increasingly like a genuine grand slam title contender.

Sabalenka said: "I'm really disappointed in my mentality in the final set. I think I could have brought more out of myself. Still missing forehand, I think that's something I have to work on."

Riske, who had the better start, had saved four break points in the first set but Sabalenka finished strongly, winning 19 of the last 22 points.

It was a workmanlike display from Sabalenka, and she produced 21 aces in a dominant display.

Boudiaf’s 23rd minute goal at the Al Shahania proceedings. Ahmed Yasser had a promising start to the evening’s game was scrappy throughout despite a couple of missed opportunities. Ahmed Yasser was at his best in the opening stages, but had little to trouble the keeper once he had kicked the ball in.

Shortly after Al Duhail took a quick 1-0 lead through Boudiaf’s header, the home side began to dominate, but the misses continued. Ahmed Yasser had little to do from then on, giving up the ball once he had kicked the ball.

The end-to-end action continued with Al Duhail’s Mohammad Mustafa outgrowing his marker with a long-distance strike which remained unanswered. Al Duhail was finally broken by Al Shahania in the 63rd minute when the home side struck twice in two minutes. The second goal was a result of a low cross from the right that Al Shahania couldn’t deal with. The result was Al Duhail’s second consecutive loss in the league. The next game is against Al Rayyan on the 12th of October.
